"Hitting the High Notes"

Sandy Corless is an award winning fine art photographer and digital artist who creates photographs which are sculptures of light, texture and dimension celebrating the elements of Nature. She has a life long interest in exploring the natural world for inspiration and constantly experiments and expands her artistic interests. Come and join us for this Master Artist class to learn about her artistic passion from the beginning and her new interests including alcohol ink painting and the emerging world of A.I. She is a fascinating individual and her presentation will be beautiful and thought provoking.

Out of courtesy to our teachers and other members (particularly those on the wait list), Corrales Arts Center will only refund class fees to members of the organization with 48 hours notice prior to class. Thank you for your understanding.
